Today marks exactly one week before we ship off one of our own, to fight for something much more valuable than achievements or server firsts. There is no magic where he is going, there are no mystical jewels or enchants, and the only buff he wears is courage. It is not his choice, nor is it his fight, but he fights it nonetheless, so that so many of us don't have to. He fights to keep our freedom... what a horrible time to be a terrorist.
